THE UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA STAFF BULLETIN

EDMONTON, ALBERTA

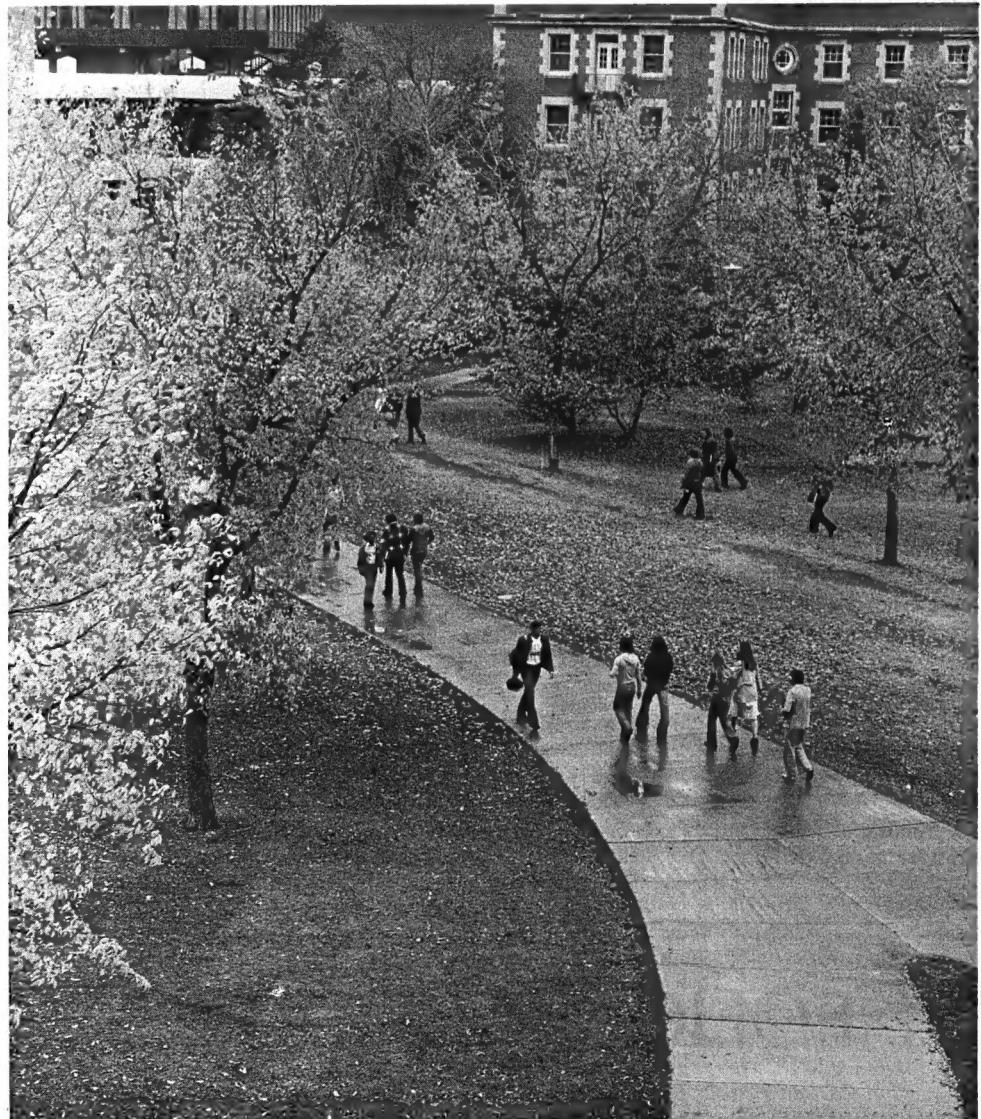

OCTOBER 2, 1975

RECORD ENROLMENT

If the campus seems more crowded this year, it may be your imagination or it may be that you are sensitive to the increase of 910 students. This year (as of September 19) there are 910 more persons registered at the University as full-time students than in 1974. This is an increase of about 4.7 percent over last year's enrolment. In 1974 (as of October 15, 1974), there were 19,448 full-time students; this year, there are 20,358. When the 3,793 part-time students are added, along with the 282 miscellaneous (which are, in fact, nurses at the University of Alberta Hospital) and the usual 243 "others," the total enrolment is 24,676. As A.D. Cairns, the Registrar, points out, it will be some time until the figures become more stable. There is still some changing of registration going on, with students switching from full-time to part-time and from part-time to full-time, or simply withdrawing. (It might be found, for example, that there is a decrease in enrolment sometime after Mid-Term test week.) Still, this year's enrolment is a record.

Some of the most interesting figures available deal with the increases and decreases in enrolment in the various faculties and schools. The faculty which shows the largest numerical increase this year is Education: there has been an increase of 473 students, bringing last year's total enrolment of 3,728 to 4,201 this year. This is a percentage increase of 12.7 percent. The faculty showing the greatest percentage increase this year, however, is Engineering. In that faculty, the number of students increased by 231, giving a total enrolment of 1,532 compared with last year's total of 1,301. This is a 17.7 percent increase. Agriculture had the third largest percentage increase with 10.4 percent based on an additional 82 students over 1974's 784. Business Administration and Commerce showed a 5.6 percent increase in enrolment this year. It had a total of 1,883 persons enrolled, which is 101 more than last year. The Faculty of Arts had a slight increase in enrolment—24 students—bringing its total to 2,974; the Faculty of Science, however, dropped in enrolment by 65 students to a total of 3,134. Graduate Studies and Research increased by 68 students this year to a total enrolment of 1,901.

Smaller faculties showed slight changes this year; nevertheless, given the smaller overall enrolment in them, the smaller changes are more noticeable. Rehabilitation Medicine gained four students, bringing the enrolment in that school to 301. Household Economics, however, lost students this year—about 55, which is a significant proportion of 1974's 405. Library Science also suffered losses: a decrease of 14 students from last year's 58. Physical Education dropped from 761 in 1974 to 720 in 1975. Medical Laboratory Science, Dental Hygiene, and Dentistry appear to have remained fairly constant in their enrolments. Law shows an increase of 22 students to 488; Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences increased by five to achieve a total of 389 full-time students; and the Faculty of Medicine rose from 687 in 1974 to 754 in 1975.

As the Registrar points out, these figures are neither exact nor finally fixed; they are, however, interesting insofar as they provoke thought about the changing interests of the students and the role of the University.

SENATE

The University Senate met September 26, 1975 for its first meeting of the 1975-76 academic year.

Chancellor's Report

In his annual report to the Senate, Chancellor R.N. Dalby, referred to the challenge that presented itself in reviewing the processes of academic government. By way of explanation, he pointed out that minor issues are being dealt with in the same manner as major issues. Further comments dealt with the future of the University which he said depended upon the importance placed on education by the public. If the public sees fit to lower its priority on education, he said, the University must find ways of living within its means by reducing its services and rearranging its own priorities.

Task Force on Native Students

The enormity and complexity of the issues involved in the problem of why so few native students were graduating from the University was expressed in the report from the task force. Questions such as what interpretation the task force would give to the term native people, whether it be the Treaty Indian only, or the Métis and disenfranchised urban Indian as well, were raised. Other questions including what level of the education process might be more appropriately studied to arrive at the true source of the problem were also asked.

University Legislation

Considerable discussion was focussed on the draft Adult Education Act. The Senate approved a motion to constitute a task force with the following mandate:

(a) to prepare a brief on behalf of Senate to the Minister of Advanced Education on the draft legislation known as "The Adult Education Act" for consideration by Senate at its next regular session;

(b) to consider in the brief at least the following major areas of concern:

1. the implications of the University of Alberta becoming part of a sub-system of universities and of a system comprising all post-secondary educational institutions particularly as this is reflected in the creation of an omnibus act.
2. the division of powers envisaged by the draft act between the University, as represented by the Academic Council and the Board of Governors, the Minister and Department of Advanced Education and the proposed special councils.
3. the implications of combining the Departments of Advanced Education and Manpower in the light of the draft act.
4. the implications of the proposed section governing the Senate and Chancellor.

And that the Executive Committee be requested to arrange for a special working session of Senate within the next six weeks to enable the widest possible degree of participation by Senate members in the preparation of the brief.

In addition, a motion was passed for the Chancellor to request of the Minister of Advanced Education that the introduction of the act to the legislature be postponed until December 1, 1976.

Committee Report

on the Management Advisory Institute

Senate members were acquainted with the objections voiced by local consultant firms over the establishment of the Management Advisory Institute. Essentially the concern was that the Institute would compete, with unfair advantages, for potential clients of those existing consulting firms. The committee reported that an open hearing would be held in which the members as well as any other interested parties could raise any questions or objections. A date is now being sought.

H. Garfinkle, A. Giorgi, C. Graumann, R. Jung, D. Kuiken, J. Lyons, H. McCurdy, J. Royce, H. Tennesen, K. Wilson, and T. Weckowicz. The registration deadline for this conference is October 10. For further information, contact the Centre, P319E Biological Sciences Building, or phone 432-5271.

COMMITTEE ON COMPOSITION OF GFC

The General Faculties Council has set up an ad hoc committee to review the composition of the GFC as proposed in the draft of The Adult Education Act. Members of this committee are Douglas Sheppard, Department of Physics; Jane Bothwell, Vice-President of the Students' Union; and Alan MacKay, Chairman of the Department of Elementary Education. Shown below is the section of the present Universities Act which deals with composition of the General Faculties Council, and the section of the proposed legislation of The Adult Education Act which deals with the same matter.

Universities Act

General Faculties Council

32. For each university there shall be a general faculties council consisting of

- (a) the following ex officio members,
    - (i) the president, who shall be chairman,
    - (ii) the vice-presidents,
    - (iii) the dean of each faculty,
    - (iv) the director of each school,
    - (v) the chief librarian,
    - (vi) the director of extension, or if none, the officer exercising comparable functions, and
    - (vii) the registrar,
  - (b) the elected members representing the faculties and the schools that have school councils,
  - (c) the following student members,
    - (i) two students nominated by the council of the students' union, and
    - (ii) if there is a graduate students' association, one student nominated by the council of the association,
- and
- (d) the appointed members.

[R.S.A. 1970, c. 378, s. 32]

Adult Education Act

71. The academic council of a university shall comprise

- (1) the following ex officio members,
  - (a) the president, who shall be the chairperson,
  - (b) each vice-president,
  - (c) chief academic officers of any faculties,
  - (d) chief librarians or persons acting in that capacity,
  - (e) the registrar, or person acting in that capacity, and
  - (f) the chief academic officer responsible for extension services,
- (2) elected members representing all faculties elected by the academic staff of the faculties in a number twice that of the ex officio members,
- (3) students, elected by the members of the student organization in a number twice that of the ex officio members, and
- (4) members of the academic staff and students appointed in such numbers as may be determined from time to time by the academic council.

THEORETICAL PSYCHOLOGY CONFERENCE

The Centre for Advanced Study in Theoretical Psychology announces the IV Centre Conference on Theoretical Psychology to be held at the University from October 14 to 17. This conference, entitled "Conceptual issues in humanistic psychology," will deal with the alleged failure of psychology to accommodate the most clearly human aspects of life. The conference will concentrate on the conceptual pre-suppositions of the discipline and, hence, is intended to serve as a constructive critical forum for foundational questions.

Participants include D. Berlyne, H. Bradbury, A. Buss, H. Coward, J. Cooper,

Manpower explains the proposed new legislation by saying that:

The principle used in drafting these two sections has been the desire to provide guidance to the universities in their establishment of an academic council while leaving them free to settle details and questions of membership themselves. The membership is essentially the same as that established in the old Act, but there is considerably more independence and flexibility.

Members of the University who have any reactions to the new section of the Adult Education Act are asked to direct their comments, in writing, to the Chairman of the ad hoc Committee on the Composition of GFC, A. MacKay, Department of Elementary Education, before October 20.

THE ACADEMIC WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION AND HOW IT GREW

Two years ago a nonassociation began. A handful of women faculty who knew each other but knew few beyond their small circle decided that it was time for women on academic staff at this University to become acquainted. So the first of many regular dinner meetings was organized, with a small program in which items of specific interest to academic women were raised and one or two women introduced themselves and talked about their work.

The purpose wasn't totally social, although there was a copious supply of wine. In part, there was the idea of acquainting women with the capabilities of their counterparts elsewhere in the University; the lack of women on University committees was (and still is) a well-known fact, and as committees comprise people who are well enough known by other people to be nominated and voted for, getting to know each other seemed to the academic women a likely place to start. In part too there was the sense that academic women are odd persons out—they don't entirely fit in with their male colleagues, and they fit in even less with women whose lives centre on the traditional roles of wives and mothers. There was a need for shared experience, a need for a group to identify with, a need for helping each other.

The meetings continued, usually one each month, for two years, with no executive, no organization, no fixed plans. The group, usually fifty or sixty in number, comprised women of all ages, disciplines, and points of view. Although it rejected at its third meeting the idea of a formal name (probably because one or two preposterous acronyms were suggested), the name "Academic Women's Association" just grew.

The Institute of Law Research and Reform requested that the "association" make submissions on the questions of matrimonial property and matrimonial support, and submissions were also made on such matters as daycare, all of which were agreed on by a group consensus rather than a formal vote. A series of profiles of women in professions, intended as role models for schoolgirls, grew up under the auspices of the group and developed into part of a television series and is developing into a booklet for use in schools. A one-day conference on "The Economics of Sex Roles" was organized for this spring (those familiar with the pages of forms to be filled for grant applications can appreciate the fun of applying for funds for a conference sponsored by a nonassociation, with no officers and a minus quantity in its bank account); thanks to money from the Secretary of State, a lot of running around by AWA stalwarts, and a lot of forbearance by the guest speakers, the conference actually happened and was a success.

But by the time of the conference, the little nonassociation had already decided to formalize itself. Possibly the group had been evolving towards a formal organization (although it had been praised earlier in the year by a guest speaker for arriving at decisions by consensus rather than playing the men's Robert's Rules of Order game), or perhaps it was precipitated by the tabling of the report of the Senate Task Force on the Status of Women ten days previously. On March 31, after the task force report and its recommendations were discussed, the group decided, literally and spontaneously as a group, that it was time to organize, if organization was what was needed to see that the report and its recommendations were not to be conveniently buried in the well-known tangle of campus committees.

So those present each threw a quarter into a hat, elected a President (Jean Lauber, Associate Professor of Zoology, one of the group's founders), went about the business of formal organization, and signed a petition to the Board of Governors expressing concern about the issues identified in the task force report.

Since then, throughout the summer, the AWA has been working towards the implementation of the task force's recommendations; most frequently this work has consisted of reminding the powers that be that there were recommendations and that the recommendations ought to be dealt with seriously.

Although the Academic Women's Association, now that it formally exists, is off on an affirmative action campaign, it has not forgotten why it started two years ago: to give academic women a chance to get to know one another. As one member said last spring, "I didn't know how many of us there were."

Although many women are concentrated in traditional disciplines like Nursing and Household Economics, many others find themselves a minority of one or two in a large department, and that can be an awfully lonely situation. With the disclaimer that she thought it unfortunate that anyone should experience problems because of her sex, this same AWA member added, "It's still comforting to know that you are not alone, that others have lived through the same kinds of problems."

Although the association comprises only women faculty, APO's, and professional librarians, its concerns extend to furthering the cause of all women, inside and outside the University.

The first dinner meeting of the fall term will be held on Tuesday, October 7, at 5:30 in the Faculty Club (Saskatchewan Room C). The meeting portion will begin at 7 p.m. and will discuss, among other things, the need for a Vice-President of Women's Affairs for the University. There is a charge: $2 membership fee plus $5 for dinner (those who wish to attend only the meeting portion need pay only the membership fee). For further information (or if you wish to attend the October 7 meeting) contact Rosalind Sydie, at 432-5853.

REVISED UNLOCKING SCHEDULE OF UNIVERSITY BUILDINGS

The Department of Physical Plant has just completed a program of selecting and identifying the specific exterior entrance doors that will be unlocked in buildings open during the weekends. Up to now, Physical Plant personnel have unlocked all exterior doors in buildings having weekend hours. The new system is designed to reduce unnecessary work, to reduce wear and tear to doors and hardware, and to improve building security in some measure. The doors which are to be unlocked will be identified with a bright yellow sticker placed inside the glass at eye height. The sticker says: "Only this door open on weekends." The new unlocking system goes into effect the first weekend in October.

BIOLOGY SEMINAR

James D. Ebert, Department of Embryology, Carnegie Institution of Washington, Baltimore, Maryland, will give a lecture entitled "A quiet revolution: ionic regulation of cell differentiation and growth" on Thursday, October 16 at 4:30 p.m. in the Students' Lounge (CW 410), Biological Sciences Building.

INTERNATIONAL FOLK DANCING

The International Folk Dancing club will hold classes every Friday evening in 011 Physical Education Building. From 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. there is a class for those new to folk dancing; from 9 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. there is recreational folk dancing. Everyone is welcome to attend.

EDMONTON BUDDHIST SOCIETY

Weekly Sunday services will be held by the Edmonton Buddhist Society commencing October 5. The services will be held from 11 a.m. to 12 noon at Belgravia Community Centre, 11542 73 Avenue. A half-hour meditation will be followed by chanting and readings. Everyone interested in Buddhism is invited to attend. Further information may be obtained by phoning 435-8252 or 649-2878.

CAMPUS LAW REVIEW COMMITTEE

The Campus Law Review Committee will be discussing general University disciplinary procedures at the following meetings to be held in University Hall. The meeting on October 9 will be held in 2-16 University Hall, and the meetings of October 23, November 6, and November 20 will be held in 3-17 University Hall. Submissions may be sent to Mrs. L. Plaskitt, 2-20C University Hall.

CHILDREN NEEDED BY THEATRE 3

Theatre 3 is looking for two children to take roles in the upcoming production of Ibsen's A Doll's House. One boy and one girl between the ages of seven and nine are needed. Some stage experience would be an asset, but it is more important that the children be mature and able to work well with adults. Rehearsals begin on October 6; the play will run from November 4 to 15 in the Centennial Library Theatre. The children's roles are small and would require only part-time rehearsal. Performances of the play are at 8:30 nightly, with afternoon matinees on Wednesdays, Fridays, and Sundays. Interested parents or teachers may arrange for an interview by calling Theatre 3 at 426-3394.

THRESHING BEE

The Rotary Club of South Edmonton is sponsoring a threshing bee at Fort Edmonton Park on Saturday, October 4 from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. A 1917 threshing machine powered by a 1915 steam engine will be used. The purpose of the event is to help the development of Fort Edmonton. Admission is $1 for adults, and 50 cents for students; children accompanied by adults and senior citizens are admitted free.

AUDIO AND VIDEO TAPES OF CONFERENCE AVAILABLE

The seminar "The Ethics, ecology, economy of growth: steady state economics" which was held at the University on September 4 and 5 has been recorded and is available for use in classroom and group discussion. The three presentations given at the seminar have been recorded on audio and black and white video, and have been edited for use in classroom and group discussion. There is a 30-minute presentation by Garrett Hardin of the University of California on "Lifeboat ethics"; a one-hour talk by Dr. Hardin on "The Ethics, ecology and economy of growth"; and a one-hour lecture delivered by Herman Daly of the Louisiana State University on "The Ecology, ethics, efficiency, and economy of the steady state."

Persons wishing to obtain these presentations may supply their own tapes if they wish. If they supply their own tapes, the cost is $5.50 for the 30-minute audio or 30-minute video. For the one-hour video or one-hour audio, the cost is $11. If the person requesting the tapes does not supply the tapes, an additional charge will be included. The additional cost will range from $1 for 30-minute audio cassette, to $27.90 for one-hour video cassette.

Further information can be obtained from Dennis Wighton, Department of Genetics, phone 432-3606.

PLANT SCIENCE SEMINAR

A. Horak of Plant Science will give a lecture on "Photosynthetic phosphorylation" on October 6 from 1 p.m. to 1:40 p.m. in 490 Agriculture Building.

ENTOMOLOGY SEMINARS

D. Potter of the Department of Zoology will deliver a lecture on "Observations on megaleuctra stigmata (Banks) and on the substrate selectivity of other plecoptera" on October 2 at 4:30 p.m. in 62 Athabasca Hall. F.D. Cook of the Department of Soil Science will give a seminar on "The Microbiology of bacillus thuringiensis" on October 9 at 4:30 p.m. in 62 Athabasca Hall.

CRI DE COEUR (AGAIN)

A little more than a year ago, University Professor L.C. Green placed a notice in Folio inviting the return of his copy of Myself a Mandarin by Austin Coates. The book is still in the possession of its borrower, and it is now urgently required by Professor Green for an article he is writing. He requests that it be returned to him as soon as possible.

FOSTER FOSTER GREGORY FOSTER

Graduates, former staff, and associates of University College, London, are asked to contact L.C. Green (432-4428), who wishes to organize a reunion.

ACADEMIC WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

The first meeting of AWA for this academic year will be held on Tuesday evening, October 7, in the Faculty Club. Dinner will be available after 5:30 p.m. The program, "Implementation of the recommendations of the Senate Task Force on the Status of Women," will begin at 7 p.m. All women employed as part-time or full-time academic staff, sessional instructors, librarians, or APOs are welcome to attend. For memberships and dinner reservations, please contact Ros Sydie, Department of Sociology, 427 Tory Building, phone 432-5853.

UNIVERSITY PARISH STUDY GROUP

The University Parish is offering a study group on theological options entitled "Where do I stand?" Using scripted dialogues between such characters as Leo Orthodox, Rip Revolution, Will Reason, and Frank Fundamental, the group will examine different perspectives on a number of theological issues. The group is especially aimed at faculty and graduate students. The first meeting will take place on Sunday, October 5 at 8 p.m. at the home of George Mossman, 10715 53 Avenue. The group will continue to meet for approximately six more sessions. For further details, phone 432-4620, 432-4621, 435-5942.

SUB ART GALLERY: EXHIBITION AND SALE

From October 6 until October 10, the Students' Union Building Art Gallery will be holding an exhibition and sale of fine art prints. The sale will take place between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. daily.

USE OF LEGAL INFORMATION IN THE HELPING PROFESSIONS

A one-evening seminar on the kinds of legal information needed by individuals involved in helping others with personal problems will be held Wednesday, October 8, by the Department of Extension. The purpose of this seminar is to give those in the helping professions more understanding regarding the application of the law to domestic situations. Particular attention will be given to gaining familiarity and knowledge on how to make appropriate referrals. Seminar panel members will be Judge N. Hewitt; Len Pollock, Professor of Law, The University of Alberta; and J. Rand, Family Court Counsellor. Registrations are accepted at the door, 218, Corbett Hall, 82 Avenue and 112 Street, on October 8. There is no limit to the number of participants. The fee is $4. Additional information on the seminar may be obtained by calling 432-5069.

WRITING A LOCAL HISTORY

Individuals who have wanted to write the history of their families or their communities or organizations of which they are members, but have not because they were unsure how to proceed will find valuable assistance in the Department of Extension's course, Writing Local History. This course, taught by James M. Parker, University of Alberta Archivist, and John W. Chalmers, author of several books and articles on local and regional history, will begin October 9 for ten Thursday evenings. The writing aspect of the course will include choice of subject, evaluation of available sources, organization of notes, planning and writing of finished material, preparation of footnotes and bibliographies, procurement and use of illustrations, problems of copyright and plagiarism, and marketing. Emphasis will be on the production of popular rather than academic appeal. Registrations are accepted in 228, Corbett Hall, 82 Avenue and 112 Street. The fee is $30 including textbook. Class hours will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Additional information may be obtained by calling 432-3033.

OIL SANDS GEOLOGY

The Department of Extension has scheduled an evening course on Oil Sands Geology to begin October 14 for those who work in oil sands related industries or services and for amateur geologists. Grant Mossop, Oil Sands Geologist, Alberta Research Council, will teach the six-week course which will deal with the place of oil sands in the world energy scene, and the nature and characteristics of Alberta oil sands, extraction technology, and the development potential in terms of future development economics and environmental concerns. Additional information on the course may be obtained by calling 432-5532. Registrations are accepted in 228, Corbett Hall, 82 Avenue and 112 Street. The fee is $25 with class hours from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES OF GEOLOGY

The basic principles of geology as well as such topics as Alberta's fossil fuel resources and uses of geology in land use planning are the subjects of a Department of Extension course, Fundamental Principles of Geology, which begins October 14. Ken Babcock, head, Geology Division, Alberta Research Council, will conduct the course which will meet for eight Tuesdays beginning October 14. Class hours are from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Registrations are accepted in 228, Corbett Hall, 82 Avenue and 112 Street. The fee is $35. Additional information is available by calling 432-5532.

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Two courses which provide essential understanding of the operation of the public service are being offered in Public Administration through the Department of Extension this fall. The Public Administration Program has been designed especially for civil servants, public administrators, and citizens and employees in the private sector who want a better understanding of their roles in civil service or who want to know how they as citizens relate to government. The two courses being offered are Public Policy and Administrative Law. Both courses begin October 6.

Public Policy will examine policy development and administration from the political, bureaucratic, and public perspective. This course will be taught by Jeremiah W. Ezekiel who has specialized in political psychology and Canadian politics.

Michael F. Rutter, Assistant Professor of Law, The University of Alberta, will teach Administrative Law, a course which examines the delegation of legislative, judicial, and administrative power to individuals and tribunals.

Application forms and additional information about the program are available by calling 432-5052. Registrations are accepted in 228, Corbett Hall, 82 Avenue and 112 Street. The fee is $150 per course. Each course is 50 hours of instruction.

INVENTORY MANAGEMENT

The Department of Extension has scheduled a two-day seminar, Inventory Management, for October 14 and 15. This seminar will provide new perspectives on how to solve common inventory management problems and should provide the stimulus most people need to adopt some new approaches to inventory management in their own organizations. Paul T. Juul, Manager, Manufacturing Services, Stevenson and Kellogg Ltd., Vancouver, will conduct the seminar designed for management personnel responsible for inventory costs or for the selecting, requisitioning, purchasing, and storing of raw materials, maintenance parts, or finished products. In addition to Mr. Juul's presentations, personnel from local organizations will discuss how they manage their inventories. Seminar participants will form small work groups to solve specific case problems.

Registrations are accepted in 228, Corbett Hall, 82 Avenue and 112 Street. The fee is $100 which includes lunch and material, or $175 which also includes registration in the course Production Planning and Control described below.

PRODUCTION PLANNING AND CONTROL

Solutions to day-to-day production planning and control problems will be discussed in a two-day seminar, Production Planning and Control, offered by the Department of Extension on October 16 and 17. Topics to be covered include the primary PPC system, PPC organization, planning and routing, development of time standards, scheduling, loading, and dispatching. Case studies will be used to examine the problem of a fast-growing job shop; appraisal of complex routing and dispatching procedures; and the problem of high inventories in large batch-type operations. The seminar will be taught by Paul T. Juul, who is also conducting the seminar on Inventory Management. Registrations for Production Planning and Control are accepted in 228, Corbett Hall, 82 Avenue and 112 Street. The fee is $100 which includes lunch and materials, or $175 for those who wish to enrol in the Inventory Management seminar as well. Additional information on both seminars is available by calling 432-5038 or 432-3037 during the day.
